

SAVE TIME & HEADACHES

With Salamander Self Registration

No more sending and resending emails or chasing people for their correct profile information. With Salamander's Self Registration, people can simply register and edit profile information themselves.

SalamanderLive™ Self Registration is a subscription-based feature that allows personnel to create and edit their own SalamanderLive profiles. This process gives time back to account administrators as it eliminates the need to manually enter or import large numbers of personnel into SalamanderLive.

Self Registration Portal:

The portal was designed to allow personnel to take control of creating and maintaining their SalamanderLive profile information. Initially, personnel will register with their mobile phone number and will add their basic information, photo, address, organization, qualifications and training, and any medical information. After the initial submission has been approved, personnel can continue to make edits, as needed, to keep their profile up to date.

Did you know...

The system uses the mobile number of the registrant as a unique identifier which limits the ability to register to only one per person.

SalamanderLive Self Registration Approval:

Have confidence that information going into your SalamanderLive account is accurate with our approval process. As personnel register and / or edit their information, administration will be able to review and decide to approve or deny any submissions. This ensures that you always have good data going in. Easily communicate with personnel if a submission is denied by adding notes to let them know what needs to be fixed and submitted again. With a click of a button, personnel can quickly contact administration, if needed. Once a submission has been approved, SalamanderLive will automatically update, saving administration time from having to enter and update the information themselves.
